

Title: The Funky Fruit

Pina Pinizzotto and Sarah Randisi, Kirkland, QC

One day, a bowl of fruit lying quietly on a kitchen table was sad. The fruit were so tired of always being quiet. Each one had a special dream.

Strawberry Sarah said quietly in her head, "I want to sing so badly."

Apple Annie said quietly in her mind, "I want to play the guitar and be a backup singer."

None of the fruits knew that they all shared a similar dream. But who would say something first?

The next day Strawberry Sarah wiggled, wiggled, wiggled. Then stretched, stretched, stretched. Then jumped out of the bowl and said, "Hey fruits. I am tired of sitting here quietly all the time. Does anyone want to make music?"

Then, Apple Annie wiggled, wiggled, wiggled. Then stretched, stretched, stretched. Then jumped out of the bowl and said, "Yes, I do! I want to play the guitar."

Then Banana Bob wiggled, wiggled, wiggled. Then stretched, stretched, stretched. Then jumped out of the bowl said, "I want to play the drums."

Slowly each fruit jumped out and said they wanted to play music.

Mango Max jumped out and said, "I want to play the keyboard."

Watermelon Will said, "Base guitar for me!"

Strawberry Sarah said, "Now we can make a band and play music everyday! We will call ourselves the....the...The Funky Fruits!"

Everyone jumped up and down and cheered! They practiced until they came up with the best song ever that they put it on the internet and The Funky Fruit became a famous band!
