

Dear LBPSB parents/guardians,

Parents looking for tips and advice in terms of how to help their child/ren overcome academic difficulties may want to visit the website of Alloprof. For more than 20 years Alloprof, an on-line service, has been helping students with their schoolwork while offering support to parents as they accompany their child/ren throughout their academic journeys. You'll be able to find articles, blog posts videos and downloadable tools designed to help students overcome academic difficulties while remaining motivated and become more autonomous.

To visit the Alloprof website please click on the following link:

An English version of the website is also available at <https://www.alloprof.qc.ca/en/students>

Please note that while the English version of the site is available, Alloprof is in the process of adding more English content in the coming weeks.
